VOLUME VIII    NUMBER 8    AUGUST 1987

1987 GRAND NATIONAL

7 p.m., July 20, 1987

"Write," says he. "I told you the deadline was July 20." Why does he insist on my writing this article? He knows how I hate to write. Why do I agree? Maybe the answer lies in the fact that the CRIBBAGE WORLD Editor is large - much, much larger than the CRIBBAGE WORLD Associate Editor.

"What do I write?," says I. "Try what, when, where, how much and give a few details," says you know who. Sounds simple. Here goes.

The CRIBBAGE WORLD Editor and I take very special enjoyment in inviting all cribbage players to the 6th Annual Grand National Cribbage Tournament and Awards Banquet, sponsored by the American Cribbage Congress: That's the what ...

This ever-growing and improving annual event (it will be difficult to improve on the 5th Annual) will take place on September 25, 26 and 27, 1987, at the Summit Hotel in downtown Hartford, Connecticut. Not bad! Got the when and where in at the same time ...

Main Tournament

$41 ACC members

$46 non-ACC members

Optional Q Pool

Sunday Consolation Tournament

$20

Saturday Evening Awards Banquet

$24

Hotel (Summit)

$65/night for 2 persons

So much for money; on to details ...

VERY IMPORTANT: make your hotel reservations early. The Summit cannot guarantee the special cribbage rate of $65 beyond September 4. See flyer for details.

The Summit Hotel is located on Constitution Plaza in downtown Hartford and is easily accessible from Routes 91 North/South and 84 East/West. It is within walking distance of all downtown shopping, the State Capitol, the Civic Center, and the Wadsworth Atheneum, one of the country's leading art museums.

The flyer has more details, but you-know-who says I haven't filled two columns yet. More details ...

Late September is a very beautiful time of year in New England. The leaves haven't peaked yet, but they sure are colorful. The air is crisp, and the sight-seeing is especially rewarding. All of New England is within easy driving distance of Hartford. North is the only direction you can drive for more than 90

TOLL IS ON A ROLL!

Talk about being on a roll! Duane W. Toll, Milwaukee, cannot be stopped. He rolls on and on, and it appears that the only thing that will stop him is midnight August 31, 1987. It may be already too late!

Duane had to fly to Reno to protect his No. 1 spot, as several challengers indicated they had secret plans for July 4.

Western experts, joined by some of the great stars of the East, made the trip with the challengers from the Lake Michigan shores to block the quiet, reserved, and unassuming pacesetter. He brushed aside all competition to raise his rating point total to over 1,500.

In a telephone interview, Duane modestly confided to this scribe that this season he qualified in 17 of 18 sanctioned meets. By winning the Reno event, it is possible for Toll to total 2,000 for this season. He says, "I will try to play in every tournament possible before September 1. I don't know why all these good things happen to me."

ZEPHYR TO RUN AGAIN!

The unheralded pilot of the Great Zephyr running between Denver and Grand Junction is coming out of retirement.

Burton Mantlo, who played a lot of cribbage during his layovers at the junctions, spoke out to all railroad employees past and present.

"Clear the tracks, for the Cribbage Zephyr will be running on time in Arizona, making Grass Root stops and bringing card fanatics into Mesa for the 2nd Annual State Meet in February."

The trainman of 40 years, who lives in Mesa, spends the hot months in the mountains of his native state. "Jerry Dickinson wanted volunteers to assist in the Cactus League Program," continued the crib addict, "and I am going to do my best to organize clubs in each and every Mesa winter resort. My first job is to get a mailing list of interested people. Write me at 2423 South Crystal Court, Grand Junction, CO 81503. After Labor Day, I will be at Goodlife Resort, 3403 East Main Street (Sp. 2818), Mesa, AZ 85203 (602-832-6245)."

THANKS TO ELECTION BOARD

The Congress and the membership appreciate the great job Chairman Dan Weir, Rich Maringer, and the helpers did in counting and recording the votes in an election that brought out 1,642 ballots.

As each individual ballot on the average had 10.2 Xs marked, the job was so much larger this year. The ballots thus required the recording of about 16,750 individual Xs.

Weir and Maringer are former Congress directors residing in Greendale, Wisconsin, and they are very interested in the welfare of our unique organization. Thanks again for volunteering.

HAVE A HEART!

Undoubtedly, most of you cribbers have indulged in a game of Hearts. This game is probably played by almost every card-playing family. Out East, there are regular tournaments.

Warren Sondericker of Milwaukee maintains that it is probably one of the two best and scientific card games slanted to four players.

This writer would like to obtain a score-card and the rules and regulations for tournament play. Can anyone help me?

minutes and stay in New England (90 minutes east and you've left the continent).

While you're here, consider going up to Springfield, Massachusetts, for the Eastern States Exposition, one of the country's largest fairs. Or visit the jai alai fronton in Hartford, an exciting sport to watch as well as wager on. There is a lot to see and do at a very pretty time of year, so do come if at all possible.

One last thing - attendance at the Awards Banquet, at least to me, has seemed less than it should have been for an event of this importance. Is it because there is a perception that the banquet is for BOD members, officers and committee persons? If so, it is a mistaken perception. As an ACC member, this is your tournament. Consider attending the Awards Banquet; you will be glad you did.

That's it! He doesn't get another word - see you in September ...

THE STATE OF MAINE OPEN

People were wondering how well attended and how good a tournament this was going to be. It was, after all, being conducted by our friends from Maine who had never held a sanctioned tournament before, it was a five-hour drive for many players, it was in July, and traveling was over crowded highways packed with vacationers.

The 90 plus cribbage players who attended aren't wondering any more. The University of Southern Maine provided an excellent facility, with lots of natural light, good ventilation, plenty of space, clearly marked tables; and for lunch, four roast turkeys graced the serving table, complete with fruit cups. Tabulations were done quickly, and everything ran smoothly and was well organized.

Congratulations to Dennis Cousens, Ken Vetterline and all those who assisted in putting on a great tournament.

THE ETIQUETTE OF CRIBBAGE Be Nice!

The Official Rule Book does not specifically cover all situations and very conspicuous by their absence are the unpardonable offenses against the ethics and etiquette of cribbage.

1. Greet your opponent and introduce yourself.
2. Do not break the seal on a new deck or handle the cards before your opponent comes to the table.
3. Do not fail to follow the riffing of the cards with an over and over shuffle so the final position of any card is not known.
4. Do not cut the pack before your opponent discards to the crib. Do not touch the pack ahead of time.
5. Do not reveal the nature of your holding by a remark or gesture.
6. Do not hesitate on the play of every card. Some people hesitate and think even though they have only one play to make.
7. Do not detach a card from your hand before your opponent has made his or her play.
8. Do not pull a card from your hand and subsequently play another one. Make up your mind which card you wish to play before reaching for it.
9. Do not chatter continuously during the contest, as your opponent does not appreciate your meaningless talk. If you must have post mortems after a hand, shuffle the cards while you are talking.
10. Do not lay a counted hand on your own side of the board as you proceed to count the crib. Place it face up on your opponent's side.
11. Do not reach over the board to pick up an opponent's counted hand or the pack. Ask for it to be placed on your side.
12. Do not conclude a match without resetting the pegs and gathering the cards together and leaving the pack in an orderly fashion. Also, be sure to remove your drink glasses.

EDITORIAL

It is inevitable and it is predictable that as tournament prize money increases, the sharks begin to show up and circle the bait. The "cut the deck" rule was established for this very reason a few years back. Isn't it a shame that there have to be one or two bad apples among the thousands of tournament players who come to have fun and enjoy the competition. Occasionally, if one has a series of hot hands and plays the cards well, that person will prevail and win a tournament or, at the very least, finish high up in the final results.

Now we have to be concerned with the tournament player who, when offering the cut, engages an opponent in conversation and places the cut deck in exactly the same position it was in before the cut was made; thereby dealing from a deck that was "arranged" or stacked to begin with. Your skill and your luck have now all but been eliminated, and the end result is a foregone conclusion.

If you see or suspect such an action, immediately call a judge; if you're timid, you are going to help the cheater. The cheater is going to make a judgment beforehand as to whether or not you'll complain. The "shark" doesn't have to stack the deck in every hand of every game. He or she is probably a good player to start with and only needs a three or four game swing in a qualifying round or perhaps a one-game advantage in the playoffs. If the cheater has a 15- or 20-point lead and is dealing in the 75th hole, there's no need to take a chance on being exposed; the law of averages is in the cheater's favor. Male or female, young or old, they are out there; and if you are not sure, let the tournament officials know immediately. Two or three judges will share the responsibility of watching that person until some conclusions can be made. Being observed is probably deterrent enough, but if a person is detected cheating, a confrontation will take place, away from the tournament area; and the person will be asked to leave the tournament and any applications to future tournaments will not be honored.

It's not an easy task to confront a suspected cheater, but the problem has to be addressed and resolved now before it becomes chronic. Everyone recognizes that in the spirit of competition some players can be nervous and mistakes can be made; and that is why judges have to be reasonably sure before anything is said. If the game is not going your way and you suspect an opponent of an irregularity, or even if you don't, you have every right to pick up the deck, which is being offered for a cut, and shuffle the deck yourself. The dealer has a right to again shuffle the pack, but you may have at least narrowed the margin against you.

Let's get the cheaters out of our tournaments because in the final analysis we all are affected, and the solution rests with each of us. Cheating will not be tolerated!!

THE HONORABLE ORDER

The Honorable Order of Cribadier Generals is alive and well. A shaved-down roster recently submitted its 1987 dues/donations income, to the tune of $617, to the Congress Treasurer. The Treasurer was asked that this money, if at all possible, be held in abeyance and used to defray part of the expenses for a probable 1988 national junior cribbage tournament.

Hopefully, the 1988 national junior event will be scheduled in conjunction with the Grand National Tournament and Awards Banquet, which will take place at Milwaukee, Wisconsin, in September 1988.

This advance notice gives you cribbage-minded parents who have a young cribbage aspirant at home plenty of time to plan and save for a trip to the 1988 Grand National. It's an ideal setup for a family cribbage trip. We know we have several cribbage-tutoring grandparents on the rolls, and this would be a great time to show your confidence in your progenies and put your tutoring to the test. Give it a shot, and help get the junior program on its feet. Get in your two cents worth. If everyone does a little extra, surely the Grand National may easily become a family cribbage affair.

If there are no cribbage-playing offspring in your family tree, then why not adopt one or two for a weekend, especially if you intend to make the trip to the 1988 Grand National. Play the hero/heroine, and kid-sit a youngster or two for a great cribbage weekend. Who knows, you may have a future champion on your hands.

By the way, do we have any volunteers to establish any sort of a junior program, whether it be a local club, league, tournament, classes, or whatever. Or maybe you'd like to attempt to get things started on a higher level. Don't be shy, especially those of you who have some time on your hands. Hold up your hand and be counted. We honestly do need to line up a bunch of volunteers to work with our younger generation. If you are even halfway interested, write to any of your local cribbage leaders and get the ball rolling.

Since 1980 the Cribadier Generals have been supporting the kids through cribbage activities. We have donated a few thousand dollars in the last seven years. We want to see this fraternal order continue to flourish. This year the roster was trimmed down to separate the one-time donors from the sustaining members who pay dues whenever asked. Dues are only asked when a CG logo item is furnished (caps, decals, t-shirts, etc.). This year two beautiful metal-type decals were submitted to each of the 100-odd members, and the dues asked were $10. Fifty-two of the CG came forth to keep the tradition alive, and dues and donations amounted to $617.

LET'S GO, CG, sign up your good buddies to help get the junior tournament established (again), and then let's keep it rolling ... Can do?

LETTERS TO CRIBBAGE WORLD

When the American Contract Bridge League holds a national tournament, it begins on a Friday and finishes ten days later on a Sunday. Each day there are at least five different events, and thousands of players from all over the country attend these tournaments. Some come for just a weekend, others for the entire tournament. I wonder if there's enough interest in a spectacular cribbage week to make it worth all the work that would go into it.

Here's an idea of what I have in mind. At some point in time, we schedule the National Open Tournament the last week of the cribbage year, and the Grand National the first week of the following cribbage year. We hold them in the same hotel, and we schedule lesser events for the in-between days. The schedule might run as follows:

Saturday-Monday: National Open
Tuesday-Wednesday: Men's and Women's Open
Thursday: Doubles
Friday: Novices -- Intermediates -- Tournament Winners
Saturday-Sunday: Grand National

In addition to these tournaments, there could be "side games" for those who don't want to play in the main events -- and consolation tournaments galore. Those who don't want to play cribbage nine straight days can skip events for day trips to the beach or other points of interest.

Those who were planning to attend only one of these major tournaments could still do so, at no extra cost. Those who were planning to attend both would now have several extra days of hotel bills, but these would be offset by the savings in transportation, especially for those flying in.

Now, we can't expect Nick Pond to do any more work than he already does on the National Open, but this event would draw enough experienced tournament directors to take care of each individual tournament. Nick could run the National Open and play in the other tournaments.

Maybe we could hold a cribbage week every five years. If you'd like to see this come about, mention it to your favorite Board of Directors member, and tell him/her to bring it up at the next meeting.

The Fourth Annual Ann Arbor Open Cribbage Tournament was held at the Ann Arbor Inn, Ann Arbor, Michigan, on June 26, 27 and 28. Harriette Haight, tournament director, reported that, in addition to the local Michigan cribbage players, others came from Illinois, Florida, North Carolina, Ohio, Tennessee, Texas, and Wisconsin to participate in the events and compete for the prize monies and American Cribbage Congress Master Points.

We had too many CRIBBAGE WORLDS left over last month, and that is an indication there were a number of people who didn't receive their July issue. Something happened to our label count, and we're not sure just what went wrong. Drop us a postcard if you didn't receive a July CW and would like one at this late date.

DBM

Jerry Adams from Rives Junction, Michigan, outplayed Roy Floyd of Beechgrove, Tennessee, in the best three out of five games for the top prize. Besides winning the championship, Jerry also held a "perfect" cribbage hand in the course of the qualifying play. A perfect cribbage hand, like a hole-in-one, is always sought after but seldom achieved in one person's lifetime.

Duane Toll from Milwaukee, Wisconsin, contested Ralph Heslop of Mooresville, North Carolina, for third place.

Mrs. Haight would like to acknowledge the Ann Arbor Inn, the Upper Deck of Ann Arbor, the Washtenaw Dairy, and Daljon, Inc., Ellsworth, Maine, for their part in helping to provide for a very successful cribbage tournament.

RULES EVERYONE SHOULD KNOW

"Trust everyone, but cut the cards."

1. The pack MUST be cut before the cards are dealt out. The old adage above will always apply.
2. If you look at the bottom card of the packet which you have cut, the penalty is two holes.
3. In cutting, you must take off four cards or leave four cards on the bottom of the pack.
4. If a card is exposed in the dealing process by the dealer, redeal.
5. After the cut, the two packets must be reunited before the cards are dealt out.
6. Cards may not be turned over upon the completion of a series in the playing process.
7. No chart of scoring unusual hands may be used at a table. You are also required to count your own hands.
8. If you peg too many points and your opponent calls you on it, your front peg is moved back to the proper place and your opponent is awarded the number of points you took in excess.
9. When you take your hand off the peg, the scoring is completed.
10. If, when scoring a hand, you take too many points and you place the peg in the game hole, you have committed a very serious offense. The penalty is loss of 15 points.
11. If you peg short of the correct mark, the points missed are lost.
12. If you take up your front peg to record a score, the back peg immediately becomes the front peg.
13. If you peg in the wrong direction, the pegs stand as placed.

If there are any problems, call a judge immediately. And, remember, if you disagree with a judge's decision, make an immediate protest that a panel of three or more judges make a final ruling.

GRAND NATIONAL TOURNAMENT
HARTFORD, CONNECTICUT
SEPTEMBER 25, 26, 27

HARTFORD METRO GRASS ROOTS TAKES OVER THE YANKEE TOURNAMENT

Space is offered to advertisers in the 1987 Tournament Program. Those ACC members who have attended the ACC Premier Event, THE GRAND NATIONAL TOURNAMENT, know that a program is given to everyone participating in the tournament or the attendant Awards Banquet. The program book lists all award winners for the year, and this year it will be expanded to include many new features. We have asked the Grass Roots Commissioner to furnish a list of names and addresses of clubs nationally so that participation by visiting cribbage players can increase. We are offering tournament directors advertising space as well as a listing in a tournament calendar; advertisers of cribbage-related items and others are invited to buy space. The program book will be the dimensions of CRIBBAGE WORLD, and advertisements will cost $25, $50 and $100 for a quarter, half and full page, respectively. The tournament calendar will cost $10 per entry. A booster page, which will list individuals, $10; couples, $15; and business names, $15, will also be utilized.

Copies of the program will also be distributed to all tournament and Grass Roots directors, to all advertisers and to all directors, officers and committee chairpersons of the ACC, in all about 500 copies.

Please send camera-ready copy and/or names and checks to Joe Seigle, 825 Flanders Road, Coventry, CT 06238. Deadline for submission is September 1, 1987. Any questions? Call 203-742-7234.

MAKE YOUR PLANS NOW FOR THE GRAND NATIONAL

Four tournaments over a 6-week period of time, during the late summer and early fall, have put the squeeze on the date the little Yankee Tournament would normally be held. Tournament Director Al Victor gave a lot of thought to whether he should change his date, take his chances, or just pack it in altogether. The Yankee never broke any records for attendance and, like any tournament, it was a great deal of work. Al, Diane, and the family did everything from mailing out applications to setting up tables to finally shutting out the lights and locking up.

Back in the days when there were only 4 sanctioned tournaments in New England for the entire year, Al Victor started the St. Andrews Tournament in New Britain, Connecticut. Later Diane Victor thought of the name "Yankee," and the name was changed. The tournament continued to be held downstairs in the friendly parish hall with the clean rest rooms, an excellent lunch, and no booze.

After much soul searching, Al Victor decided not to run his tournament this year. Once he let his thoughts be known, a group from the Hartford Metro Grass Roots Club #26 decided they didn't want to see the Yankee "go down the tubes"; and after several discussions it was concluded that December 6 would be a better time to hold a tournament because there are no tournaments between November 1 and late February in New England. The "new" old tournament will be called the Connecticut Yankee Classic and will be moved to Hartford. The tournament entry/application will appear in the November CRIBBAGE WORLD as an insert. Mark your calendars now -- more info later. The members of Hartford Metro Grass Roots Club #26 would like to see you there.
